1. Qualitative Information Regarding Quarterly Settlement of Accounts

(1) Explanation of operating results

During the first six months of the year ending March 31, 2016 (April 1, 2015 through September 30, 2015), the economic environment showed a sharp contrast between the first and second quarters of the year. In the first half of the period under review, consumer spending expanded in the U.S. as the employment situation improved there; in the second half, however, concerns over the impact of the Chinese economy's slowdown grew. In Japan, too, the recovery of corporate earnings became increasingly uncertain as the Chinese economy weakened.

Under these economic circumstances, the Nitto Group ("the Group") implemented measures that were designed to expand the scale and productivity of existing businesses and to create new businesses. In the mainstay electronics market, optical films for LCDs and their process materials from the Information Fine Materials Sector and ultra-thin, double-coated adhesive tapes from the Functional Base Products Sector all performed well. Automotive products maintained their momentum, thanks to successful global marketing via "San-shin (three 'new') activities," which constitute the Group's proprietary marketing strategy for discovering new applications, developing new products, and creating new demands. We are also pursuing "San-shin activities" for aircraft manufacturers by tapping into a wide range of products, both existing and new, and this has begun to steadily bear fruit. Meanwhile, our efforts to create new businesses led to the development of the world's first magnetic field orientation controlling neodymium magnet. The high level of freedom that it offers in terms of configuration design allows for control of crystal orientation, which improves motor performance and thereby contributes to the development of miniaturized, lightweight motors. We will put forth our best effort to begin mass production of this innovative product early. In a bid to expedite the creation of new demands, we have established a new Global Marketing Center in Japan. Conveniently located in Shinagawa, Tokyo, this new facility is expected to increase our contacts with customers. This November will see the opening of a new Innovation Center within the Global Marketing Center, which will be our fourth after the ones in Toyohashi, Japan, and in Shanghai and Tsingtao, China.

As a result, revenue increased by 5.6% from the same period of the previous year (changes hereafter are given in comparison with the same period of the previous year) to 415,736 million yen. Operating income increased by 39.6% to 60,160 million yen, income before income taxes increased by 40.2% to 59,701 million yen, net income increased by 52.6% to 46,435 million yen, and net income attributable to owners of the parent company increased by 51.3% to 46,229 million yen.

Summary of results by segment

(1) Industrial Tape

For the electronics industry, shipments of double-sided adhesive tapes for high-end smartphones and waterproof/sound-passing functional products continued to increase. In the automotive industry, although global unit production rose only slightly year over year, we managed to maintain high growth thanks to the successful implementation of "San-shin activities" in the U.S. and Asia. Among the top selling products were reinforcing and vibration damping materials for vehicle frames, wire harness bundling tapes, and vent filters for lamps. Meanwhile, general-purpose, double-sided adhesive tapes, which are used for a broad range of industrial applications, performed strongly in Japan and South Asia among home electronics and office automation equipment.

As a result, revenue grew by 9.7% to 164,911 million yen and operating income grew by 69.9% to 15,345 million yen.

(2) Optronics

Information fine materials continued to sell briskly as we continued to receive a steady flow of orders for optical films for new high-end smartphone models. Transparent electro-conductive films for touch panels also gave a strong performance, owing to a growing demand for stocking up on new tablet PC models. All in all, information fine materials sold favorably. Flexible printed circuits sales were affected by the sluggish demands for smartphones made by Chinese manufacturers, while process materials, which are used mainly for downstream processing in semiconductor fabrication, fared well just as information fine materials did in response to the growing demands for new high-end smartphone models.

As a result, revenue grew by 1.2% to 246,426 million yen and operating income grew by 18.3% to 42,104 million yen.

(3) Medical & Membrane

For the medical products business, transdermal therapeutic patches were bearish in Japan due to the emergence of generics, while the booming oligonucleotide business in the U.S. and elsewhere stimulated demand for custom oligonucleotide synthesis services. Overall, the medical products business remained strong. Membrane products (polymer separation membranes) also continued to perform well, except for in the Chinese market, which was partially affected by the economic slowdown, as we successfully received profitable replacement orders for sea water desalination plants and offshore oil fields.

As a result, revenue grew by 32.1% to 24,762 million yen and operating income grew by 1,017.4% to 4,073 million yen.
